WEATHER FACTS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Ohio.
Rain or snow, southerly winds shifting to colder.

SPRINGFIELD, O.,
December 19, 1886.

Months of cold weather are yet in store for you.

Stacks of clothing are manufactured and in store for you at the When to meet every sort of tricky, changeable, weather need, with prices for the same in accordance with cost of cloth, trimmings, making and selling, all within the one firm.

OWEN BROS.

If you'd match the present weather perfectly, buy and wear our celebrated "Storm King" overcoat, costing a five dollar note, or a blizzard-proof ulsterette, of heavy all-wool material, costing eight dollars.

All through the west side portion of our immense outfitting establishment, there are chances for saving dollars in overcoat buying. There are coats at nine, at twelve, at fifteen, at eighteen which for elegance of material and fit are beyond the ability of any competition to match, while the prices are made one, two or several profits lower from manufacturing advantages which are patent with the When firm in Springfield.

Besides the overcoat quarter there are opportunities offered for saving various amounts among the thousand and one suit piles occupying space through the center and eastern quarters of the store.

Suits for hard days' work, $3.50, $5, $6, $6.50, $8.

Suits for fine dress, $10, $12, $15, $16, $18 and $20.

Behind these suit piles for men looms up our handsome children's department, where parents or guardians are likely to learn a thing or two about how to dress the boys, and save a dollar or two on any suit or overcoat purchased from the department.

All of this without a word for Christmas things: silk mufflers, silk handkerchiefs, silk umbrellas, silk suspenders, silk stockings, gloves of kid, of castor, of buckskin, of cloth, of yarn, mittens of kid and others; boys' sealskin caps, $1; men's fur caps, Scotch caps, 35c and 40c; underwear, gum coats, cardigan jackets, fine derby hats, smoking jackets and caps, anything and everything to wear and look well may be found at the

THE SOCIETY KALEIDOSCOPE

A Gay and Brilliant Week of Entertainment and More in Prospective.

Miss Buxton Entertains at Progressive Euchre—The Black and Kelly Receptions—Other Notes and Announcements.

The past week has been a gay and brilliant one, socially, in Springfield, and the coming week promises of furnishing more notable companies. Not before this season has Springfield society appeared in all the gayety and splendor of which it is capable, and which has made the city notable for its social events. It has come to be a recognized fact in Ohio that the little inland metropolis which spells its name with a capital "S" is about "up," on what is good form socially, and that its companies, receptions and entertainments are second to none between the Ohio river and Lake Erie.

The week opened with a very delightful entertainment at the residence of Miss Louise Buxton, whose company are always elegant. On this occasion she entertained a small party of friends in honor of Miss Lida McCann, a very charming girl from Lexington, Ky., who has visited in this city before and made many friends and admirers. Progressive euchre was the order of the evening, and the battle of "spots" was waged with consummate skill, not to say ferocity. The following were the winners of prizes: First favors, Miss Mary Cassidy, sashet bag, and John Connable, collar and cuff case; boobies, Chas. and Annie Spalding; and Miss Fannie Foley, nice motto cards.

The guests were Misses Lulu Jeffries, Fannie and Alice Foley, Mary Cassidy, Annabel Paige, Susie Ballard, Anna Steele, Messrs. Will Kidder, Will Rodgers, Chas. and John Spalding, and Ralph Bartholomew, John Connable and Will Donnell.

The reception and dancing party at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Black, Tuesday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Seeds, who had just returned from their wedding tour, was a conspicuously elegant and brilliant event, and was one of the most extensive and elaborate social affairs ever given in this city. About 125 guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Black, who are noted as entertainers.

The entire lower part of the house was thrown open to the guests, including the double parlors, the library and smoking room, and the spacious vestibule between, all illuminated with tinted light and decorated with lovely flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Black received in the north parlor with Mr. and Mrs. Seeds, while Misses Cora and Lizzie Black, Misses Cassie and Lillian, and Mr. Stevens, of Columbus, did the honors in the library. The front suite of upper chambers was devoted to progressive euchre and found many votaries.

The supper, in three dining rooms, was served in the room over the dining room, and an apartment adjacent. It was thoroughly in harmony with the high character of the entertainment throughout.

Some exquisite toilets were worn by the ladies present, and the fact is universally commented that no season has approached the present for its range for magnificent gowns. The handwork of the "Inspired Worth" was noticeable in several instances, and among the toilets the following were noted:

Mrs. Black, black silk; Mrs. Seeds, white silk and lace cut en train; Miss Cora Black, of New York, white silk, with tulle over dress, court train lined with green silk; Miss Stevens, of Columbus, pink silk, with broad over-dress, pearl trimmings; Miss Lizzie Black, of Zanesville, blue and white silk; Mrs. W. H. Blee, a Worth costume, white and yellow satin with train. Mrs. H. H. Moore, combination of blue, green, and purple velvet, cut en train; Mrs. Charles E. Winters, pink silk, with garnet velvet; Mrs. L. Eden Bowman, white silk, with beaded front, cut en train.

Mrs. Elder, of Indianapolis, trained dress of cream silk and red velvet; Mrs. Harry Hawk, white satin en train; Mrs. D. R. Potter, brown satin; Mrs. A. C. Black, black silk; Mrs. S. F. McGrew, white broad satin, with train; Mrs. Baldwin McGrew, pink silk; Mrs. Geo. Knight, blue silk; Mrs. Harry Folger, white silk en train; Mrs. Joe Little, black silk; Mrs. J. H. Rabbitts, cream silk with train; Mrs. Stevenson, of Cleveland, black lace en train.

Mrs. Stilwell, garnet silk; Mrs. Judge White, black silk with train; Mrs. Thiebaud, black lace over white silk; Mrs. Will Hamilton, white cashmere trimmed with black velvet; Miss Nellie Johnson, white silk with striped velvet front, en train; Miss Jones, of Findlay, cream-colored surah, trimmed with duchess lace; Miss Nixon, of Dayton, white silk and lace; Miss Buxton, Worth costume, red broad satin, embroidered in cut-sleeved beads.

Lida McCann, of Lexington, Ky., trained costume of white silk trimmed in point lace, diamond and pearl ornaments, cut en train; Miss Helen Ballard, black silk, jet trimmings, decollete corsage.

Miss Bowman, unique costume of dark green and white silk; Miss Foley, black silk, with jet ornaments; Miss Alice Foley, black lace, with pink trimmings; Miss Jeffries, combination brown velvet and pink silk, with pink feather trimmings; Miss Ellen Wilson, combination of green velvet and light broad lace; Miss Nora White, black silk en train; Miss Anna Black, black lace over yellow satin, decollete corsage; Miss Ella Miller, lovely costume of light blue silk, with lace overdress; Miss Louise Baldwin, black lace over yellow satin.

Miss Cassidy, elegant costume of white broad satin with pearl passementerie, cut en train; Miss Della Grove, pink silk with white lace; Miss Burton, pink silk; Miss Lena Lewis, black lace; Miss Keyser, garnet velvet with trimmings of pink and blue silk; Miss Paige, trained dress of blue velvet and light blue silk; Miss Rabbitts, orange silk with velvet; Miss Mary Rabbitts, white tulle and lace; Miss Lettie Burbank, white cashmere with white sweat sash; Miss Anna Hall, trained dress of pink silk, decollete corsage; Miss Rose, pink silk and lace cut en train.

Among the guests were the following, accompanied by their wives: Harry Hawk, W. T. Stilwell, H. H. Moore, W. H. Blee, Judge White, J. H. Rabbitts, Chandler Tobbsen, Samuel McGrew, J. D. Little, Elden Bowman, C. E. Winters, Baldwin McGrew, H. S. Folger, G. H. Knight, Theo. Troupe, T. R. Potter, J. K. Black, Tom McGrew, Edward Buchwalter, Will Hamilton, C. B. Fisher, Frank Farmer, and Mrs. T. R. Potter, Mrs. L. E. Jones, Miss Phillips, Mrs. Wm. Elder of Indianapolis, Misses Fannie and Alice Foley, Louise Baldwin, Louise Jeffries, Helen and Susie Ballard, Ella Miller, Mary Anderson, Lida McCann, Darlington Bowman, George Rose, Nora White, Lizzie Nixon, Mary and Anna Rabbitts, Minnie Kiser, Anna Hall, Mary Cassidy, Anna Black, Lettie Burbank, Nellie Johnson, Nellie Jones, Bessie Black, Della Grove, Ellen Wilson, Miss Anna Steele, Messrs. Edward Grant, Charles Spalding, Will and James Donnell, John Connable, Frank Cobbletz, Frank and Ralph Bartholomew, John L. Zimmerman, Arnold H. Griffith, Charles Shepherd, George Dial, Will Jones, Harry Folger, of Dayton, Henry At. and Will Rodgers, Mr. Will Rabbitts, Charles Jeffries, Will Foss, Frank Johnson, Will Downey, Robert Richter, Dr. Hall and Will B. Rodgers.

On Wednesday evening the handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. O. Warren Kelly, of South Market street, was thrown open to over one hundred guests, who assembled to attend what proved to be a most elegant dancing party and reception. Three rooms on the first floor were given up to dancing. The floral decorations were beautiful and more profuse than usual. The variegated flowers, which diffused a pleasant odor while they charmed and rested the eye, and the lower-like appearance of all the rooms was marked. In the matter of fine toilets the party was notable.

Supper was served at 11 o'clock in a very complete and admirable manner. Promptly upon the discontinuance of the dancing, the doors were thrown up, and the servants entered bearing small tables, which were distributed about the rooms and the hall. These were laid with crystal and silver and were in readiness for the supper. Each table seated three couples. In a surprisingly brief time and without confusion, the guests were all seated, and the service of supper commenced. The dainty repast was in four courses—quail, pickles, biscuit and coffee; Roman punch and fruit confections; a salad, oyster patties and olives; ices and cake. Wood's orchestra furnished the musical accompaniment, and the amusement of the evening, although an animated progressive euchre warfare was waged upstairs.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Foss, General and Mrs. Carrie, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Little, Mrs. C. E. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blee, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Rodgers, Mrs. and Mr. Robert Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin McGrew, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Dieter, Mr. and Mrs. Van Cartman, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bauer, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rockfield, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Purrell, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rabbitts, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McGrew, Mr. and Mrs. W. Constantine, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Jones, Dr. T. J. Casper and wife, Mrs. C. C. Jones, Winters, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Uhl, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Ludlow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stout, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bookwalter, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Black, Mr. and Mrs. T. McGrew, Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hank, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Buchwalter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Phillips, Mrs. Henry Baldwin, Mrs. L. M. Potter, Mrs. Stevenson, of Columbus, Mrs. Wm. Elder, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Jones, Misses Nellie Johnson, Anna Page, Lida Jeffries, Anna Hall, Louise Baldwin, Nora White, Anna Rabbitts, Ella Miller, Fannie Foley, Nellie Thomas, Lizzie Bookwalter, Lida Norton, Anna Black, Lillian Jones, Columbus, Miss Anderson, Columbus, Nellie Jones, Findlay, Messrs. Percy Norton, J. B. Cartmell, E. S. Kelly, Dick Baldwin, Ralph Bartholomew, Will Kidder, Will Thomas, Charles Spalding, Fannie and Alice Foley, William Foss, William Rabbitts, William Rodgers and Edward Grant, of Zanesville.

Miss Nettie McClure entertained at her residence in Xenia Thursday evening in a very brilliant and successful manner. The following attended from this city: Misses Mary Cassidy, Fannie and Alice Foley, Ella Miller, Mary Anderson, Annabel Paige; Mr. and Mrs. Link Ludlow; Messrs. Will Kidder, Chas. Jeffries, John Connable, Henry Wiseman and Chas. Spalding.

John Foss is in New Orleans on business. Miss Eva Carson returned Friday evening from school at Pittsburg.

The Misses Chorpennan are home from school to spend the holidays.

A. L. Beardsley, of Troy, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Steele, of Columbus. Miss Martha Steele is home from Wells college, New York, for the holidays.

Bob Frey is home from school at North Adams, Mass., to spend the holidays.

Miss Laura Coles is home from her school at Granville, Ohio, to spend the holidays.

Miss Anna Kaufman, of Osborn, was the guest of the Misses Miller, of East High street, yesterday.

Miss Marie Miller arrived home yesterday from Blairsville, Pa., and was warmly welcomed by many friends.

Miss Lida McCann, who has been the guest of Miss Buxton, returned home to Lexington, Ky., Saturday.

Miss Lulu Jeffries, who is visiting in Cincinnati, will return home Tuesday, accompanied by a lady friend.

C. Robert Richter attended a reception at the residence of Hon. J. W. Robinson at Marysville Thursday night.

Ben Tuxton is expected to arrive home from school at Williamsburg, Mass., today, and to bring with him a friend.

Miss Bessie Buxton, of Minneapolis, known to many in Springfield, leaves in January for a prolonged visit to relatives.

Miss Mary Anderson returned to her home in Columbus yesterday after a pleasant visit as the guest of Miss Ella Miller.

The marriage of Frank Warder and Miss Lizzie Bookwalter will occur during the holidays. And the bride's trousseau is in preparation and is exquisite.

Charles and Harry Fisher, sons of C. B. Fisher, are home for the holidays from the military school at Reading, Pa., of which Lot C. Bishop, of this city, is tutor.

Much credit is due to John Connable for his handsome conduct in organizing and putting up for the Springfield party who attended Miss McCann's reception at Xenia Thursday evening. John did it up extremely right, and no mistake.

A BAD CAVE IN.

Michael Clifford Has His Leg Broken in Three Places.

Michael Clifford, one of the men making the excavation for the Stewart building, on East Main street, met with a very serious and dangerous accident, between five and six o'clock last evening. While working near one of the banks a big "jump" of earth weighing about a ton, fell striking his right leg and pinning it to the earth. Both bones of the leg were broken in three places between the knee and ankle. The man was taken out of his perilous position by his fellow workmen, and the patrol wagon called, which hauled him to his residence, corner of Forest avenue and Harrison street. Dr. Russell was called and dressed the injured member and reports that he thinks the leg can be saved all right. Clifford does not set in.

Clifford is fifty years old.

Does It Pay?
It is often asked, "Does it pay to deal honestly and fairly with every one?" F. Brandom & Co. answer, "Yes it does." To this manner of business they attribute their great success. You can depend upon that that they tell you about a piano or organ. They won't take advantage of any one.

T. J. Monahan has a very fine line of brass goods as well as a fine stock of glass and gewsware that make beautiful Christmas presents.

Brass and plush goods of endless variety and styles at bed-rock prices, at J. V. B. Hoyle & Co., 34 South Limestone street.

Fur caps of all descriptions.

Some Pointers on Where to Look for Santa Claus That You Can't Neglect Without Being Rude.

A Reportorial Trip on Saturday Night—A Peep into the Emporium of Springfield's Representative Merchant—Scenes of Beauty.

Local news was not rushing last night and a GLOBE-REPUBLIC reporter concluded to take that terra incognita in journalism—a holiday. In other words, he concluded to indulge in a little stroll about the city, look into the brilliantly-lighted shops and see what the commercial Santa Clauses had in store for the people of Springfield. The ineluctable character of the weather rather prevented many from being out, but the stores were nearly all full and were beautiful in their holiday attire and animated with the rush of trade.

Henry C. Wiseman's hardware store, No. 43 East Main street, was the first place that attracted attention. The show windows were exquisitely arranged, and with the lights glistening on the polished brass and steel goods made a most attractive appearance. They contained an infinite variety of useful and ornamental articles, and the shape and color of the goods were so arranged that they were sure to attract the eye of every passer-by. The store was filled with the most beautiful and useful articles, and the prices were so low that every one could afford to buy. The store was a model of efficiency and the service was so good that every one who went in was sure to be satisfied.

The store-room of the Springfield Seed Co. was the next place visited, and its interior was a pretty spectacle. The store was crowded with seed, and the prices were so low that every one could afford to buy. The store was a model of efficiency and the service was so good that every one who went in was sure to be satisfied. The store was a model of efficiency and the service was so good that every one who went in was sure to be satisfied.

Miller's tea store, in the Arcade, was crowded with customers, and the gift of a reporter laid to walk on people's heads in a brief way before he could get to the room for his complexion. Miller's is ordinarily a tea and coffee emporium, but at this season of the year, it is a holiday bazaar of the most magnificent proportions. It is a sort of Noah's ark of holiday goods and they are there in infinite variety. The store is stocked from floor to ceiling with toys, fancy goods and presents suitable for every age and condition. It is simply a liberal education to inspect the shelves at Miller's. In plush novelties, what the stock is, it makes a fine young affair. Everything that was ever conceived of in china goods and bric-a-brac are there for the asking, and the line of mechanical toys, dolls, etc., is great. It is not a matter of surprise by any means that the store is crowded with customers, and that the clerks had all they could attend to and a few more. Miller is a lily, commercially. He knows the meaning of enterprise and sagacity. He takes advantage of his commercial experience and mental aptitude and the result is surprising.

It was genuine enjoyment to get into C. H. Pierce & Co.'s, and dwell upon the beauties of the stock they have this year. Pierce's is a store of the most magnificent proportions. It is a sort of Noah's ark of holiday goods and they are there in infinite variety. The store is stocked from floor to ceiling with toys, fancy goods and presents suitable for every age and condition. It is simply a liberal education to inspect the shelves at Pierce's. eyes of both the old and young, was the store of C. H. Pierce & Co. No. 43 East Main street, who have bought heavier this year than ever before for the grand annual boom. The store was crowded with eager purchasers selecting their numerous presents, and many were those who knew what to buy, such was the great variety of suitable articles that caught the gay and festive shopper. There were a large score of clerks in all parts of the store waiting on several customers at a time, and still the rush was so great, that it was hard to wait for their chances to be attended to.

Those looking for Christmas goods will do well to call at the 99-cent store and see the grand array of goods.

BUTTERWORTH'S LAUGH.

It Cheers the Actors—Sherman as a Poker Player—Donn Platt's Plaid.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—In the course of a column of gossip among the statesmen, a Washington paper today has this: "Mr. Butterworth is one of the heartiest laughers seen in our theaters. It cheers an actor always throughout the performance if he gets a glance at Mr. Butterworth's face. Senator Sherman: 'Yes, I have read the story where I am represented as throwing up my hand when Senator Bowen announced that he had three pairs. I don't think it is worth while to contradict the story, as its circulation affects me in no way. I have never passed before the country as a poker player, and my standing with my constituents will not be affected by my lack of skill with cards. Still I wish to say that I understand poker sufficiently to know that there can be no three pairs held, and I don't think Senator Bowen or any other senator would try anything of the kind on me.'"

This morning's Post says: "Donn Platt, postmaster of Mack-o-cheek, Ohio, was at the postoffice department yesterday. He thinks the name of his postoffice is a little too 'cheeky' and has induced First Assistant Postmaster General Stevenson to change the name by dropping the 'k.' The place is named after an old Indian chief, whose name was really Mack-o-chee. Some funny Yankee added the 'k,' and now the postoffice department has dropped it. This postoffice pays a salary of $4 a year. As there is a slight increase in the business, it is thought that next year it will pay as high as $4.10."

IS THERE CROOKEDNESS?

A Demand on Powderly to Make a Financial Statement.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—The Tocsin, the labor organ, commenting on Powderly's recent assessment of 25 cents per capita on the Knights of Labor says: "It would be well for the General Executive Board, when contemplating any more schemes, to first ascertain whether the money is on hand to carry them out, and if not, to consider the financial condition of the membership before demanding of them a portion of their hard earnings in the shape of an assessment. Before this assessment is paid by any one we think there should be a correct financial statement presented to every local assembly showing where all the money goes that is turned in to the general office from time to time. Many are demanding this, and there is no valid reason why their request should not be complied with."

TO RESUME MONDAY.

Hocking Valley Miners Will Work Pending Arbitration.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 18.—Operators and miners held a meeting here this morning and a proposition was accepted that all miners return to work next Monday, pending an investigation. The report of the committee will be given the latter part of next week.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 18.—Hon. John McBride informed a newspaper correspondent that he believed the mining troubles in the vicinity of Jackson, O., would be settled by arbitration. He had telegraphed Vice President Hiss to make up the papers for the arbitration. He says there is no chance for a settlement of the trouble in the Hocking valley mining district where about 2,000 black miners are out on a strike, they having been working for fifty cents a ton or five cents less than the schedule demands.

Send Over Three Thousand Dollars to Ireland—Conspiracy Arrests.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—The following cablegram has been sent: "Wm. O'Brien, editor of United Ireland, Dublin: A mass meeting of citizens to-night, the attorney-general presiding, unanimously condemned the policy of evictions, annulled $3,032.50 to the eviction fund, and promised more aid to the Irish people in their noble fight for fair rent and home rule."

DUBLIN, Dec. 18.—Summons will soon be issued against Messrs. O'Brien, Dillon, W. Redmond Cully, Harris and Sheehy, charging them with conspiracy against the government.

AN OBSTINATE WITNESS.

Sam Perkins Won't Tell What He Knows About the Frank.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 18.—Election Inspector Lorenz Schmidt testified before Commissioner Van Buren today that he gave the tally-sheet, before it had been mutilated and changed to John E. Sullivan, county clerk. Sam Perkins, who knows much that is damaging to prominent democrats, refused to testify. The court will rule on his refusal Monday.
